El Fasher Teaching Hospital
Medical Director - Dr Ali Yhya

Children photographed at El Fasher hospital with signs of severe malnutrition - enlarged heads, loss of hair, sunken eyes, skin with no elasticity.

Bottom left: HIV sufferer, parents both dead from HIV. HIV is a new and worrying legacy of conflict.

Few children reach hospital, these are the lucky ones. When a child is severely malnourished he will die unless his mother can get him to hospital. Adults are also at risk, but it is the smallest who are the first to succumb to starvation.

The harvest was an almost total failure Darfur, in 2010.
