

WHIZZ KIDS DESIGN WEB TO HELP KIDS IN DARFUR SUDAN

KIDS FOR KIDS has chosen DESIGNLYNX to help get the message out worldwide how goats help children in one of the most remote, and dangerous, parts of Africa.

“It seems strange to use the wonders of the web to publicise the needs of children who do not even know how a light switch works” said Patricia Parker MBE, Founder of KIDS FOR KIDS the only organisation helping children living in remote villages in Darfur, Sudan, where violence continues, despite being called “the worst humanitarian crisis this century”.

KIDS FOR KIDS, which is 5 this year, is enabling 100,000 people to stay in their homes “But we need to do more” said Patricia today “there are 3 ½ million people in villages. Unless these communities are helped, there will be nothing for the poor people in the displaced camps to return to. This is why we have asked DESIGNLYNX to help get our message to children across the world. There are 21 KIDS FOR KIDS villages. We want 201 right now!”

Grant Harrison of DESIGNLYNX said “ we were delighted to help KIDS FOR KIDS. Children already look at the KIDS FOR KIDS website to learn about children their own age in Darfur – now they will be able to send in news which can go on the KIDS FOR KIDS BLOG within minutes!”

The site is choc full of information about life in Darfur, and about the goat loan projects that literally save lives. “We want feedback from all our friends and supporters all over the world” said Patricia “and there will be up to date news from Darfur. If the international community cannot help, let us show, through the wonders of the web, how each of us can – and does – make a difference.”
